

Being a Detroit, Michigan native and having access to all the different museums has been a key contributor in Michael Campanili's rising interest in photography. Mr. Campanelli now resides in Eagle Point, Oregon, where he is married with three sons. He has made travel along the Mother Road numerous times and has taken thousands of photos along the way. If someone would have asked Mr. Campanelli what his hobbies consisted of he would of said hockey but now without hesitation it is Route 66. Michael Campanelli doesn't consider himself to be a photographer and uses the reactions that he gets from individuals as inspiration to continue taking photos.

Michael Campanelli

He loves being out on the road, and having the freedom to do what he wants to do, when he wants to do it. Intriguing is the one word Michael would use to describe his work. The advice he would give someone that would be interested in becoming a photographer is to use film and stay away from digital. Also always use a tripod to capture steady and in-depth pictures of the field. The most difficult part about being an photographer is never having enough daylight to get all photos he would like to get.

“I am all alone, just looking and looking”

~Teiji Saga